Farmer's Market Opens

The Taylor Farmers Market moves to a new day and opens for the season on Friday, June 18, in the parking lot of the Sheridan Community Center (12111 Pardee Road, between Northline and Goddard roads).

In response to requests from last year's market-goers, the weekly market will open one hour earlier, at 11 a.m., and run to 6 p.m. Vendors will sell Michigan-grown produce, baked goods, honey, flowers, smoked meats, and other items.

On opening day, well-known Taylor artist Leo Kuschel will paint scenes from the market.

The market debuted last year to more than 15,000 customers and dozens of vendors. While almost all of last year's vendors are returning, there also will be new vendors, musicians, special events, and occasional visits from artists.

The market enjoyed the sponsorship of many local businesses and individuals in 2009. To become a weekly market sponsor or a vendor, or to receive more information, contact market master Shirley Moore at smoore@waynemetrol.org.

City of Romulus To Eliminate 32 Jobs To Fix Budget Woes

Facing a major budget crisis like other communities across the state, the City of Romulus has announced a cut of more than 30 jobs, and is sending out notices to let workers know that they could be laid off in early August.

"Romulus must continue making these tough cuts and painful sacrifices to balance our budget," said Mayor Alan R. Lambert. "While I deeply regret being forced to lay off City workers, the simple fact is Romulus must live within our means and build a budget that is fiscally responsible. Romulus is making tough cuts to save money now so we can protect our future and avoid more painful cuts down the road."

In the past few weeks, the City had already announced the layoff of three police officers, two firefighters, and one employee each at the Public Library, in the Assessor's Office, and in the Treasurer's Office. The additional layoffs, according to Economic Development director Tim Keyes, are slated for the following departments/offices: Public Works (15), Fire (5), Police (3), Recreation (3), Clerk (2), Mayor (1), Building (1), Economic Development (1), and Ordinance (1).

The City has also cut the budget by:

- reducing staff through attrition;
- making 5% salary reductions and cutting benefits for the mayor and other elected officials, all department heads, and nonunion staff, while also asking all other City employees to take wage and benefit cuts;

- canceling spending on nonessential programs like Independence Day fireworks, City music festivals, and summer recreation; and
- working to eliminate City-owned vehicles being used by the Mayor and non-emergency department heads.

Although such cuts will result in significant savings, Lambert says they aren't nearly enough.

"The earlier layoffs of three police officers and two firefighters will save City taxpayers more than $387,000 a year, and the 32 additional layoffs slated for August would save an estimated $1.7 million, but Romulus faces a $3-million-plus budget hole for the next fiscal year," he explained. "Property values have plunged sharply and slashed our revenue."

To raise additional revenue, Lambert is hoping that Romulus voters will approve a millage proposal that will appear on the August 3 Primary Election ballot.

The ballot language, which is now official and can be found on sample ballots available from the Clerk's Office, reads:

"Shall Section 11.1 of the Charter of the City of Romulus, Wayne County, Michigan, be amended so as to permit the levy by the city of an additional ad valorem tax in an amount not to exceed three (3) mills for five (5) years, from 2010 through 2014, for the sole purpose of paying for police and fire services?"

Lambert says that, although the additional millage would be strictly earmarked for police and fire services, its approval would actually benefit everyone because the new funding would free up current monies spent on those services, and allow them to be allocated elsewhere.

"I had a couple of people ask me in the last few days – I think, in fact, some DPW workers – 'Why should we work for the police and fire millage? It's [only] gonna help the police and fire.'"

"Well, it's really gonna help everybody," he continued. "The additional funds that we're gonna get for the police and fire are gonna leave us available monies to keep the rest of the employees working. ... It is police and fire millage, but the money that we spend on the police and fire – and I want to make this very clear – will leave us other monies to use on all the other employees."

Lambert added that, given the additional savings that will result from a number of upcoming employee retirements, chances are good that most of the proposed layoffs could be avoided if the millage is approved. But he warned that, if it doesn't pass, even more layoffs and deep program cuts will be forthcoming. □

Letters to the Editor

Firefighters Urge Support of Millage Proposal

Dear Editor:

Recently, the City of Romulus notified the media of the possibility of mass layoffs within the next several months. The City has approximately 210 employees that serve its citizens in various ways.

The Department of Public Works manages the citizens' problems in many ways by fixing water main breaks, patching roads, cutting grass on abandoned properties, clearing backed-up sewer systems, etc. The Police Department keeps the citizens safe by responding to 911 calls and providing increased neighborhood patrols. The Fire Department serves the citizens by responding to 911 calls and teaching fire prevention throughout the community.

The DPW, RPD, and RFD have already been given notice that jobs will be cut. These layoffs will directly affect the citizens of Romulus. Currently, City leaders are working to put forth a millage in the amount of 3 mills. This millage will be listed as a "Police/Fire Millage," and will provide income to the City to limit the impact the citizens will feel from layoffs. If this millage is approved, it will limit the number of layoffs for the Police and Fire Departments which will directly help the citizens – and, furthermore, this approval will free up other assets in the City's budget, limiting the layoffs to the DPW.

A new millage request of 3 mills will cost the average homeowner $12.50 per month or $2.88 per week. If the millage is not approved, the services provided by DPW and the Fire and Police Departments will be affected significantly. The conditions and issues related to the layoffs and the millage are evolving, and it is not possible to surmise the true fallout that may occur, but it is our goal to continue to provide input for these issues that will allow the Romulus Fire Fighters Local 4126 to provide the best level of service to the citizens that we can in a precarious economic situation.

If you have any questions about this "Letter to the Editor," contact President Andrew Ellis, Jr. at Iaff4126@yahoo.com.

McLachlan Should Resign

To the Editor:

I'm writing this letter because I believe the residents of Romulus have the right to know what happened concerning a member of the Romulus Community Schools Board of Education.

Board Trustee Robert McLachlan was arraigned on a charge of assault and battery against a woman who is a Romulus resident. He pled guilty to a lesser charge.

Twice, Mr. McLachlan has voted not to reinstate a student from expulsion. (See his "Guest Commentary" in the little paper, January 15, 2010.) One student was referred to as incorrigible and potentially dangerous. The other student, he felt, posed a threat.

Mr. McLachlan preaches zero tolerance in our schools, and I believe that, as an elected official, he should set the example. I feel he should step down as a School Board member. He cannot control his own voice and temper, as I have witnessed at a number of School Board meetings. He verbally attacks other School Board members when they have a different view.

If you can't make it to a School Board meeting, I recommend you watch it on cable and see for yourself.

Cemetery Update

Dear Romulus Residents:

As chairperson of the Romulus Memorial Cemetery Board of Trustees, I just wanted to update you on last month's clean-up day at the cemetery. It was very successful. Historical cement urns were set upright. Trees were trimmed, uncovering many monuments that have been hidden for years by shrubbery. This was done in the oldest section of the cemetery.

I must say we could not have accomplished this without our Board member, Craig Plank. Wonderful job well done!

Additional thanks go to Linda McNeil, Linda Choate, Nan Meyer, Mark Lewkowitz, Rodger Kadau, Tammy McGrane, and Nancy Champaigne, all of whom gave a helping hand. We also appreciate the interest shown by Cheryle Buckley and Celeste Roscoe, who stopped by to see our project.

Special thanks go to all the residents who have so willingly cleaned up grave sites by removing items that do not comply with the new rules. Letters of thanks to acknowledge your support are being sent to all for whom we can find addresses. The City Clerk's Office is trying to create a database with next-of-kin names and addresses. Any information you can provide pertaining to your loved one will be very helpful.

Many residents have questions about the shrubbery on grave sites. The Cemetery Board and the Department of Public Works are not removing or trimming shrubbery at this time. There are some grave sites that have shrubbery that is beginning to cover monuments and encroach on adjacent grave sites. We are asking that you trim this shrubbery. If you need help in removing any articles or trimming trees, please call the Clerk's Office (734-942-7540). We are always willing to work with our residents.

Middle School To Receive Grant Funds

By Carl J. Weiss, Superintendent, Romulus Community Schools

Earlier this week, the Michigan Department of Education released a list that identified approximately 100 schools that are eligible to receive federal School Improvement Grant funds over the next three years. The district received notification early in May that Romulus Middle School would be on this list of schools, and therefore eligible to receive up to $2 million over the next three years to improve student achievement.

Although Romulus Middle School has met Adequate Yearly Progress requirements every year for the past six years and received a "B" from the State of Michigan on its school report card for the last three of those years, the middle school was selected for improvement because it needs to more consistently improve the test scores of its "at risk" learners. This School Improvement Grant will allow the middle school to implement programs that identify students at risk of failure, and place them into safety-net programs that provide increased learning time and other support mechanisms to ensure their academic progress.

Romulus Community Schools officials are working with the Michigan Department of Education and Wayne County Regional Educational Service Agency to develop a program for our students that meets all requirements of the School Improvement Grant; however, because of the late notification, many of the program details have not been resolved at this time.

We anticipate providing a more detailed report to the Board of Education at its June 28 meeting. □

Rotary Fishing Derby Draws Nearly 100

When he gets into third grade this fall at St. Alfred Catholic School, Nickolas Hopper will be able to tell his friends about the fish that didn't get away.

The 8-year-old Taylor boy nabbed a 4.57-pound carp on his way to winning the Junior Division of the 2010 Taylor Rotary Fishing Derby, held Sunday at Coan Lake in Taylor's Heritage Park.

Hopper, whose main fishing experience came at his aunt's house in Sturgis, wound up catching 7.25 pounds of fish to win the Junior Division of the 22nd annual children's fishing competition.

Hopper won a rod and reel, compliments of the Rotarians and Walmart, and an actual alligator head skeleton donated by Elmer DePlanche, a former Taylor resident who returns to the city nearly every year from Lake Placid, Florida, to serve as a weigh master for the tournament. Joining DePlanche was professional fisherman and City employee John Carter.

The Junior Division was open to children ages 5 to 8. Alyssa Williamson caught 3.79 pounds of fish, putting her in second place. Logan Heath's .87 of a pound was good for third.

The Senior Division – for children 9 to 12 – had the closest finish in its 22-year history. Erica Simpson caught 11 fish for a total of .91 of a pound. It was the last bluegill she caught just minutes before the final siren sounded that nudged her ahead of second-place Elizabeth Bowdler by just one one-hundredth of a pound. Jamie Dow was third with .21 of a pound.

Simpson, who turns 10 on June 20 and will be entering fifth grade at McDowell Elementary School in the fall, said the derby was "pretty exciting." This was her third Taylor Rotary Fishing Derby, although it was the first one in which she went home with prizes.

Rotary President Ed Sell congratulated the winners, praised Dianne and Paul Battistone of the Taylor Golf, Parks and Recreation Department for their organization, and thanked parents for allowing the children to take part in the two-hour event.

Organizers moved up the derby from July to June this year, hoping the early start – and the day's mostly overcast skies – would mean more fish. But, for the second straight year, the count was down from years past.

RHS Students Develop Business Skills Through "Global Trade Mission"

A group of 14 students from Romulus High School will be better prepared to enter the world of business after participating in Automation Alley's Global Trade Mission Challenge, or GTM.

The three-day program, held May 20–22 at Wayne State University, simulated the process of developing an innovative product and launching it in the global market.

"The students were broken into groups of three to four, and, with the exception of two groups, they were working with students from other districts," explained RHS language arts teacher Keisa Haynes, who served as a teacher/coach for the group. "Each group was tasked with coming up with a product that they could successfully market in a specified country within a specified region. The U.S. was excluded. The challenge was that students had to consider cultural and regional factors that they are not used to considering, since the U.S. has its own cultural norms."

After coming up with a product and marketing strategy, each group had to create a PowerPoint presentation and an executive summary, and use them to pitch their plan to potential "investors" – a group of prominent business people assigned to one of the marketing regions. Each investment group had a total of one million dollars that could be awarded to one or more of the mock companies as seed money.

According to Haynes, Romulus High School's students were among the recipients of more than $2,500,000.

"Several groups earned $200,000 and $500,000," she said. "And in one case, one of Romulus High School's finest, Ebone Alexander, was in a group who won the entire $1,000,000! That means that none of the other groups in that region got any money from the investors!"

"As if the news could get any better, Mariah Laird was among a group who received a trophy for displaying the most team spirit," Haynes continued. "Her group also earned $500,000 from the investors."

Danielle Funderburg, vice president of the Romulus Community Schools Board of Education, was impressed with the students' performance and excited about the opportunities presented by the program.

"GTM gave our young people a glimpse of what it will be like in the highly competitive world of business," she stated. "They got a chance to meet and collaborate with some of their future competition, and to see how developing skills like research, teamwork, and networking can improve their chances of success."

RHS assistant principal Linda Poirier thanked those whose donations helped the RHS students arrive at the program well-equipped to compete.

Five Taylor firefighters – Battalion Chief Ron McNamee, Captain Ed Sierota, Senior Captain Fire Inspector Troy Teifer, Lieutenant Jim Hubbard, and Fire Medic Ron Howard – displayed techniques for extricating an injured "person" from a car. The firefighters used the "jaws of life" to remove the roof and doors, then removed the "body." The demonstration was part of an open house held at Midtown Fire Station on June 12 and attended by 500 people. Other attractions included bike safety and smoke house demonstrations. Photo by Dave Gorgon

Taylor Parks Wins First-ever Track Meet

Coach Joni Bridgens led Taylor Parks to its first championship in the Taylor School District's annual Fifth-grade Track Meet, held at Kennedy High School.

With time running short in the 2010 Taylor Schools Fifth Grade Track Meet, Taylor Parks Coach Joni Bridgens put it on the line: Her young runners would need some first-place finishes.

With only the girls and boys 100-yard dashes and the co-ed relay race remaining, Taylor Parks trailed Blair Moody Elementary by one point, 28 to 27.

Bridgens said Jada McKinney and David Morhan patted her on the back and told the coach not to worry.

McKinney went on to finish first in the girls 100, then Morhan raced to a first-place finish in the boys 100. Both finished in identical times of 13.3 seconds. The 12 points they earned sealed the victory for Taylor Parks, which finished with 39 points.

Bridgens said it was Taylor Parks' first-ever victory in the district-wide track meet, but the second championship for her as a coach. She led Myers Elementary to the title in 2007.

Happy Anniversary!

Lawn Displays Celebrate Longtime Couples

Congratulations to former Romulus Mayor William Oakley and his wife Mary, and to current Romulus City Councilman William Wadsworth and his wife Jean, who celebrate wedding anniversaries this month.

The Oakleys, whose anniversary date was June 10, proudly announced their 60 years together with a whimsically romantic display of cuddling bears and lots of bright-red hearts.

The Wadsworths, who will be married 43 years on June 24, have continued their tradition of announcing their anniversary by displaying their lawn ornaments, "Mr. and Mrs. Duck," in full wedding regalia. □
